

Examining Emergency Department Inequities (EEDI): Do they exist?

AP Elana Curtis
Dr Sarah-Jane Paine
Dr Yannan Jiang
AP Peter Jones
Dr Inia Tomash
Prof Papaarangi Reid

Despite high Māori Emergency Department (ED) use, few studies have examined ethnic inequities in EDs around Aotearoa New Zealand. To help improve understanding of this topic, we undertook the largest, most comprehensive investigation of ED outcomes by ethnicity to date.

We are pleased to offer regional EEDI Seminars where we will present our study findings. We invite engagement from those involved with EDs, acute care more broadly and/or have an interest in Māori health inequities and how to undertake quantitative research from a Kaupapa Māori positioning.

Nau mai! Haere mai!

CHRISTCHURCH EEDI SEMINAR:

DATE: Friday 10th September

TIME: 09.30-11.00

VENUE: Meeting Room L.7b
Christchurch Hospital
2 Riccarton Avenue, Christchurch
Central City, Christchurch 8011

Light refreshments will be provided.

VENUE MAP LOCATION

This will take you to what3words.com where you can navigate to the correct entrance via Google Maps

VISIT OUR STUDY WEBSITE

MEDICAL AND HEALTH SCIENCES

HDEC (Health and Disability Ethics Committees). Reference No.17/NTB/185